

5 Trending Kitchen Cabinet Colors

When you enter your kitchen, how do you feel? Are you ready to take your day on or do you feel stressed out? Whether you're aware of it or not, a color scheme you choose plays a crucial role in creating a certain emotional response and atmosphere.

Knowing that cabinets are the focal point of your kitchen space, picking a color that complements the rest of the decor is of vital importance. They quickly boost the room's overall design while also featuring your favorite hues.

However, choosing cohesive and visually appealing cabinets proved to be quite challenging - the wrong shade can turn your otherwise classy kitchen into one that's drab and boring. This is why today we'll discuss 5 trending favorites heading into 2023, and how they can add style to your home.

Elite Remodeling Business Update - April 2022

1. Natural woods

Natural wood is always a strong contender if you're looking for an attractive cabinet color that will stand the test of time and still look beautiful years down the road. Regardless of what anyone says, they remain one of the design favorites precisely because they can be easily paired with almost any color palette. No matter if you polish it, stain it, coat it, or distress it, raw wood grain will bring the beauty of nature right into your home.

2. Different shades of blue

Unlike white and gray, which have been considered safe options for kitchen design, blue has risen to the top of homeowners' lists. Although kitchen-friendly, this versatile hue offers plenty of exciting options ranging from classic navy to vibrant aqua. It can be a foundation for other colors or the main kitchen star that draws attention and adds depth and sophistication. What's more, they can be a stunning combination when combined with white upper cabinets, wood or metal, or as a centerpiece on an island.

3. Silvery gray greens

Currently, this earthy silvery hue is having its moment, and it looks like it could take top honors for this year's color cabinet trend. It's no wonder, as a darker variation of this color grounds a space while lighter can create an airy, inviting atmosphere. For those who prefer brighter kitchen space, keep in mind that applying this color to the cabinetry will open up the space without being overly neutral.

4. Touch of pink

The kitchen is certainly one of the most fun rooms to use this peppy hue in, even though no one can underestimate its power in the bedroom. Whether you prefer a soft blush, neon pink, or terracotta-inspired shades, this is your winning card to rising kitchen trends. Choosing a lighter version of this color will still add glamor to your cooking space, even if you don't feel like taking a major color risk.

About Us

5. A perfect shade of white

Anyone who has ever tried to buy white paint knows that finding just the right shade can be a truly Kafkaesque quest. Despite this, it continues to be on the lists of new trends in kitchen cabinet colors because of its versatility. Swiss chocolate. paper white. white dove. creamv white. timid white. You name it. If you want to warm up a room, choose creamier tones, whereas cooler tones will create a more fresh and energetic environment.
